

Jonathan Fink
Special Counsel to the Comptroller of the Currency

Jonathan Fink is Special Counsel to the Comptroller of the Currency.

In this role, Mr. Fink provides counsel and advice to the Comptroller of the Currency and senior officials in the Comptroller's office. Mr. Fink represents the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC) on a number of international working groups. He also provides advice with respect to the Comptroller's functions as a member of the Financial Stability Oversight Council, the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. He assumed this position in September 2014.

Prior to this role, Mr. Fink served a detail as the Senior Advisor to the Senior Deputy Comptroller and Chief Counsel at the OCC during which he provided advice and assistance on a range of legal, licensing, and community affairs matters. He previously served a detail as Special Assistant to the Deputy Chief Counsels within the Chief Counsel's Office at the OCC.

Mr. Fink joined the OCC in 1996 and served as Assistant Director in the Bank Activities and Structure division until 2013. In this role, he worked on matters involving the implementation of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010, international activities, cross-border resolutions (representing the OCC on the Basel Committee's Cross-Border Bank Resolution Group), payment systems, licensing activities, bank powers, lending limits, affiliate and insider transactions, community bank resolutions, and compensation.

Prior to joining the OCC, Mr. Fink served in a variety of positions with Bank One, Chicago, NA, from 1992 to 1996, concentrating in regulatory compliance, investment management, and trust administration.

Mr. Fink received his juris doctor from Chicago-Kent College of Law, Order of the Coif, and his undergraduate degree with honors from the University of Birmingham, England.
